Welcome to the first newsletter that is specific to the field of school psychology. The intent of these quarterly issues is to cast a broader communication net to school psychologists across the state. There is always a lot going on, so the hope is to summarize a few important areas quarterly in order to keep the discipline updated on areas relevant to the work of school psychologists.

In this issue:
- Introduction—Watch the Video
- NC School Mental Health Initiative—Update on the work of this partnership
- The Every Student Succeeds Act—Updates from NCDPI
- School Psychology and the WSCC Model
- MTSS Awareness
- In Case You Missed It—Concussion Monitoring

UPDATE ON THE NC SCHOOL MENTAL HEALTH INITIATIVE (NC SMHI):

- Throughout the past 5 months, this partnership of stakeholders has worked diligently on a summary of their findings and recommendations, with the result being a full report and executive summary.
- The group reconvened on October 11th in order to finalize:
  - the Executive Summary
  - plans for presentation to the State Board of Education in November
- Access to the full report and executive summary will be available to the public by late October—stay tuned

EVERY STUDENT SUCCEEDS ACT – UPDATES:

- The draft of North Carolina’s state plan for the federal Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) has been posted to the NCDPI website for your feedback.
- ESSA replaces the No Child Left Behind (NCLB) legislation and will guide public education.
- This is your opportunity to provide feedback on what you believe should be included in our plan to educate children in North Carolina public schools.
- To access the draft plan, click here.
- Be sure to read the introductory pages. Areas where feedback is requested are highlighted in yellow; however, please feel free to comment on any area of the draft plan.
- Comments or questions should be submitted through the Let’s Talk System linked on the left of the NCDPI website.
- Public comment sessions are also being held across the state (see information below).

SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGISTS WERE HIGHLY VISIBLE DURING THE FIRST ROUND OF PUBLIC COMMENT SESSIONS HELD BY NC DPI.

THE SAME LEVEL OF VISIBILITY IS ENCOURAGED DURING THIS SECOND ROUND OF PUBLIC COMMENT SESSIONS

Public comment session information:

- North Carolina Department of Public Instruction (NCDPI) staff have scheduled a second round of six public comment sessions to receive feedback from educators, parents, students and other stakeholders on the state’s K-12 Education Plan for the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA).
- Public input will help guide the development of the state’s plan for complying with the new federal education law approved in December 2015 to replace No Child Left Behind.
- The purpose of this second round of sessions is to provide opportunities for the public to make comments on the rough draft of the state’s plan, which is posted on NCDPI’s ESSA website. Please note that the state plan is a draft and does not contain answers to the many questions that must be answered before a final plan can be submitted to the US Department of Education in March 2017. There are many placeholders throughout the draft document where additional information will be placed in the state plan after those decisions are made based on feedback that NCDPI receives over the next few months.

- A recording and notes from each session also will be taken.

Again, in addition to these in-person sessions, the public is invited to submit comments to NCDPI through Let’s Talk.

Simply click on the Let’s Talk link and select the ESSA dialog topic when prompted.

If this newsletter was forwarded to you by a colleague and you would like to receive it directly, sign up for the DPI School Psychology Listserv.
Each newsletter will include MTSS Implementation updates relevant to school psychologists.

The focus for this issue is general awareness of MTSS implementation.

Can you identify your district/charter’s MTSS Cohort? – If not, ask.

Are you connected with your district/charter MTSS Team? – If not, start getting connected.

Do you advocate for school psychologist involvement on district/charter MTSS Implementation teams? – If not, begin advocating—how can you help to support district/school installation of MTSS?

Does your district/charter have a two-way communication loop established between district/charter MTSS teams and school psychology department? – If not, encourage this to happen.

It is essential for school psychologists to be aware and involved as their respective districts/charter schools/state operated programs move forward in installing an MTSS.

At the time of this newsletter publication, there are 112 traditional LEAs, 51 charter schools, and 4 state operated programs participating in MTSS cohorts 1-4.

MULTI-TIERED SYSTEM OF SUPPORT:

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT!

The Children & Youth Committee of the NC Brain Injury Advisory Council (in collaboration with NC DPI’s Healthy Schools Section, Specialized Instructional Support Personnel, and School-Based Practice Advisory Council on TBI), has been involved in some very important work throughout the past year:

The work on Concussion Monitoring (mTBI) was organized and implemented across several phases, with current results of the work to include:

- Education Policy (SBE HRS-E-001) on concussion management for ALL students (extends beyond Gfeller-Waller/student athletes & playing field)
- Development of an Implementation Guide to support all public schools across NC to meet the policy requirements
- Development of a Parent Brochure to support a uniform system of communication (medical provider, parent, and school) regarding concussion management for ALL children and youth in NC public schools
- The C&Y committee continues to work on installing this brochure in ALL medical provider networks across the state

Additionally, professional learning opportunities regarding these efforts, the policy and guidance to support effective implementation will be ongoing and shared with pediatric nurse practitioners, school nurses, school psychologists, and school counselors across the state.

Share your district’s or charter school’s story regarding implementation of HRS-E-001 by emailing a video clip or summary of your efforts to:

DPIschoolpsychology@gmail.com

Learn more about how school psychologists can take a leadership role in concussion monitoring by reading the recent article featured in NASP’s Communique: The School Psychologist as Concussion Team Leader
Specialized Instructional Support Personnel (school psychologists, school counselors, school nurses, school social workers), as well as other educators, understand that each student’s education extends well beyond the academic subject areas. The importance of educating the whole child is beginning to be more fully understood by all, as evidenced by some of the recent activity occurring at the state level.

- The NC State Board of Education and Department of Public Instruction convened an Interagency Advisory Committee earlier this year, as described in State Board Policy TCS-B-009, for the purpose of identifying, reviewing and making recommendations related to the challenges that face our at-risk school-aged population, such as poverty, safety, health and other non-academic barriers.

- The work of the NC School Mental Health Initiative, as well as the development of the NC’s plan to implement the federal Every Student Succeeds Act are also very connected into addressing the needs of NC public school students through a whole child approach.

The field of school psychology, at both the national and state level, has been continuously advocating for school psychologists to be utilized effectively. The comprehensive implementation of school psychological services ultimately supports teachers’ ability to teach and students’ ability to learn, and is a cost-effective investment in the success of ALL students.

By focusing on youth, addressing critical education and health outcomes, organizing collaborative actions and initiatives that support students, and strongly engaging community resources, the Whole School/Community/Child approach aligns closely with the standards of practice that are established for school psychologists, making these professionals key collaborators to effectively support these coordinated efforts around school health.

This year’s theme, “Small Steps Change Lives,” reminds both students and adults how their small actions can add up to larger, positive changes. School psychologists play a vital role in supporting students as they work to achieve their goals, both big and small. Students begin to recognize how the small actions they take over the course of time—studying, practicing, being respectful, exploring—make a big difference in their lives as well as the lives of others. Individual small steps help build the path to creating a positive, connected, and respectful school community.

Adaptable resources are available at NASP for planning your SPAW activities. From sample newsletters, to interactive classroom activities, to press releases, there are multiple ways to bring the “Small Steps Change Lives” theme to your local community.

Find the Bright Spots… and then replicate them

Let’s not end this on November 18th

Let’s begin shining a spotlight on school psychology departments and/or individuals that are doing great work across the state on a regular basis throughout the school year.

School Psychologists are invited to share their great work by submitting their stories/highlights/video clips from across the state.

Whether you are:

- Establishing a continuum of school mental health supports at the district or school level
- Working collaboratively to ensure effective installation of an MTSS
- Working with local School Health Advisory Councils (SHACs) on important issues
- Collaborating with other Specialized Instructional Support Personnel (SISPs)
- Advocating for the needs of children with disabilities

…and the list can go on and on!

Please submit!

- All submissions should be emailed to: DPIschoolpsychology@gmail.com
- Submissions should include the name and brief description of the LEA/school/charter school and school psychologists/other education staff involved, with either a link or contact information for interested parties to obtain additional information.
- The submission should be limited to 100 words or less (or) a brief video (no longer than 5 minutes)
